

5 QUESTIONS TO STOP AND CONSIDER WHEN MAKING OPERATIONAL DECISIONS

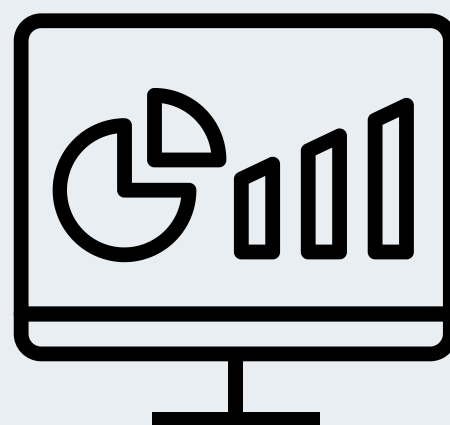

How much of my past experience am I bringing into the frame?

What assumptions is this causing me to make?

How much don't I know about the situation?

What is the metric you may be looking at, not telling you?

How much of the decision making power has been given to those in the reality?

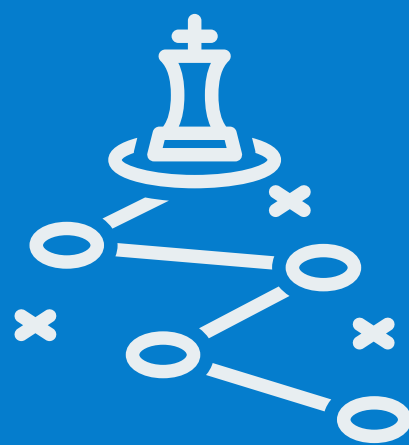

How much input are people offering up?

How are you asking for additional insight?

How does this decision further our strategic aims?

How would I demonstrate this?

OPERATIONAL DECISIONS ARE MADE IN ALMOST EVERY MOMENT. THEY ARE MADE BY LEADERS AND ALSO PEOPLE OPERATING IN THE WORK. HAVING THE SELF AWARENESS AROUND HOW YOU ARE MAKING DECISIONS IS THE STARTING POINT FOR ANYONE AS THIS CAN OPEN UP NEW OPPORTUNITIES TO IMPROVE IN THE RIGHT DIRECTION.

IF YOU WANT TO CHAT MORE ABOUT HOW TO DEVELOP BETTER DECISION MAKING INTO YOUR BUSINESS, GET IN TOUCH AT

WWW.GETKNOWLEDGE.CO.UK

